Q: Accessing custom settings from custom Task I have successfully created and extended a Custom Task with a Custom Settings object. When I run the script from an OnWorkflowActivated event handler, the My.Settings object correctly shows the stored value (default). However, when I run the task from a method in a custom task control, the My.Settings object always returns 0. Can anyone explain how to make this work? For example: Task "MyCustomTask" implements OnTaskStarted and OnTaskCompleted events. My settings file is My.Settings with name MySettings and value "1". Stored settings correctly in task settings control. MyMethod() in Task Control correctly returns 1 when running in OnWorkflowActivated event handler. MyMethod() in Task Control always returns 0 when running in Task. A: That's because you don't have a settings object for your Task Control when you are executing your task. It will create one with the default settings based on the execution environment.

Hold down the left mouse button and drag to create the shape that you want. You can resize the polygon or rotate it as you draw it. Figure 7-3 shows the different shapes that you can create with the Rectangle tool in Illustrator. **Figure 7-3**
Rectangle tool in Illustrator. You also have the Ellipse and Polygon tools. Drawing with the Ellipse tool requires that you create two points (nodes) first and then build the shape. You can't adjust the points as you are drawing with the Ellipse tool, so it may be confusing at first. In Figure 7-4, I've just created the shape for this figure by starting the path with nodes and then drawing the polygon. You can adjust the nodes as you are drawing as well as size the shape by holding down the spacebar. **
