Category:Computer-aided design softwareHassan Mohammadi Colonel (retired) Amir Hassan Mohammadi (; born 6 April 1953) is a former Iranian Army officer who commanded Iran's Islamic Revolution Guard Corps Ground Forces and was the chief of the Ground Forces during the 1980s and 1990s. Career Mohammadi studied mathematics and management at the academy affiliated with the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps in Tehran. He graduated from the academy with the rank of major. He joined the Ground Forces and in 1984 he became head of the Basij-e Pasdaran. He led the Ground Forces during the mid-to-late 1980s before being promoted to the chief of the Ground Forces in June 1991. During his tenure, Iran deployed troops along its border with Iraq, and some of the Islamic Republic of Iran Army's elite Revolutionary Guards actively participated in the Iraq–Iran War in addition to the regular Army. He retired from military service on 15 June 1997. Mohammadi has been active in the Iranian clerical establishment since the early 1990s. Mohammadi was a member of the core leadership council of Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei which included about 50 religious scholars and laymen.
He has been described as "a more prominent figure" than Valiollah Seif in Khamenei's inner circle. Mohammadi is among the most
