KeyMACRO is a small program that can turn your keyboard into a remote control with just one keystroke. It will send the keystroke it receives via the special 'remote control' key to whichever application is focused. Remote control key allows you to use any keyboard, not only one with a remote control built in. It will create keyboard shortcuts for common tasks, like "New Folder" or

"New Word Document" and many others. KeyMACRO is a very easy to use and powerful alternative to Microsoft's Windows Remote Desktop or VNC. It allows you to control any program on any computer from your keyboard. KeyMACRO will log all the keystrokes in a text file. It will also save the text file as a macro and you can run it with one keystroke or by setting a keyboard shortcut. How to do: 1- Run KeyMACRO 2- Find the program you want to remote control, on the list of the programs to be controlled, click on "Add Program..." 3- Type in the program's name and press enter. You can even search for a program from the list of programs to be controlled. 4- Click on "Add Program", a new window opens showing the program you want to control, the Remote Control button is located under the button "New Remote Control" 5- Use the mouse to select your desired key to send to the program being controlled and click on the "Insert" button. 6- To use KeyMACRO, select the keyboard layout you want to use by selecting "Select Keyboard Layout" and clicking on "OK". The keyboard layout is saved and saved on the hard disk, if you need to use a different one you just have to make the settings again.

KEYMACRO is very easy to use, besides all the keyboard shortcuts it has many options to customize it and do more complicated actions such as launch a program with multiple arguments. KeyMACRO is a great tool to help computer users to take advantage of keyboard shortcuts, log keystrokes, create keyboard shortcuts, move, resize and lock windows and even save video games to a DVD. I hope you like this program! DESCRIPTION: It's the 2019 version of the only Serial Killer Simulator you need: - Kills the Biggest Serial Killer Game Ever! The HUNTER is on the loose! What's New In?

KickAss Tracker is a web-based torrent tracker which contains thousands of torrents which are indexed daily by users and given a "KickAss" score of up to 8. If you would like to contribute to the KAT website, please visit Google Chrome Google Chrome is a free web browser developed by Google to run on Microsoft Windows, Mac OS X, and Linux operating systems. It is Google's flagship web browser and uses the same rendering engine as Chrome OS, although the Chrome interface has been customized for each operating system. It became the world's top downloaded web browser in February 2013. Chrome was developed by Google's Advanced Technology and Projects group, with its codename derived from the word "chrome". The team was led by Chris Evans and consisted of 34 engineers. Features Google Chrome is a free and open-source web browser developed by Google, released on August 3, 2008, and available for Microsoft Windows, Mac OS X, and Linux. It is a fast, lightweight and secure web browser. The browser was announced by Google on the Google Chrome blog on September 4, 2007, where Google also indicated that Google Chrome would become a regular development branch as well as a beta channel, and would be released on all three platforms with version 4.0. In the beginning, Chrome was not an open-source browser. In January 2008, Google stated that Chrome would become open-source in the future. Chrome allows for running apps and plugins, and supports most modern web standards, such as HTML 5, JavaScript, CSS, and web fonts. It also includes integration with the Google Chrome syncing system, which allows users to easily sync their data across different devices. In the Google Chrome browser, the address bar is replaced with a Google Chrome Search box, which is powered by Google Search. Google Chrome also uses its open-source Blink layout engine. Chrome also features extensions and themes, similar to those found in Mozilla Firefox, Internet Explorer, and Opera. Extensions can be created using HTML and JavaScript, and the themes are written in the CSS and JavaScript. Users can choose to use extensions as part of the default browser interface or turn them off. Themes are available in the browser and can be applied to change the color and appearance of the browser.
