Colour-coded mapping of muscular afferents from the human toe pulps. The aim of the present work was to map the pathway of innervation of the toe pulps and selected groups of muscle fibres, innervated by the tibial nerve in humans by means of a topical application of a red-coloured fluorescent dye, leading to the identification of the main afferents of the toe pulps. Isometric contractile response to electrical nerve stimulation (EPS) in tibialis anterior muscles were also recorded. Topical application of a red colouring substance, following injection of a small volume of Pontamine Sky Blue, showed a strong distribution of nerve fibres in the epidermis and dermis of the pulp, close to the main frequency of myelinated afferents innervating the intrinsic toe muscles. The double-innervation of the toe pulp by a single group of afferents

Q: How to support network link through jquery mobile I have a problem, my app should work on iPhone or Android mobile phone. On iPhone, there is no connectivity, but it's ok on Android. My app has a list of items and in this list there is a button and when user tap on the button there is an event. I have a search box where user can type the item's name, when user tap on the button, the event should be fired and it will search in the list and then user can select the item. The problem is, the search box can't be showed on iPhone and the event can't be fired. How can i resolve this? Thanks, A: You need to launch an activity which would use URL that points to a particular server. That server will then be responsible for loading the other parts of the screen.
