Lithuanian Army, a Third Reich Panzer Corps, and a newly created, elite, German-Polish Grenadier Corps attempt to split the heavily defended Soviet positions on a broad front, to open up the path to Leningrad and the Baltic Sea. The German Blitzkrieg across Poland leaves the Soviets reeling on their Eastern front. Now it is time to strike at the neck of the Soviet forces that oppose them, to isolate and trap the Red Army on their Western front and block their retreat to the Baltic Sea. The Blitzkrieg Campaigns Explore World War II as this second Campaign in the Blitzkrieg series gives you the opportunity to experience a full strategic campaign. Starting on the Eastern Front, you will lead one of two sides against all enemies as you battle through battles from the liberation of Warsaw in August 1944 to the end of the war in May 1945. What's new:

The prestigious activity of scouring, or skimming, the Mesterland is a controversial one, but the modern resurgence of the folk sport of stalking has brought forth the divide between the Scythians and the rest of the community. The symbol of the Mesterland is the Marauder, a type of hunting outlier, designed to present itself at odds with the banality of other huntsmen, and a seclusion from other creatures of the wilderness. Their tests are strenuous and unforgiving; no matter how prepared a Marauder, the Mesterland drags it down with it until it's broken, and its life is frozen out. Even the most well-versed of Marauders will not be granted entrance to the Mesterland. Theme Requirements Special Rule Scythians Scythians are a shambolic hunting party that will stoke their momentum by ambushing anything and everything they can lay their hands on. They must declare "scythian" when inducting their first casualty. The Marauder is an unusual sort of hunting outlier, only recently finding favor among the Scythians. Marauders are called to arms to serve as aides to the Mester's abode. Skimming in the Mesterland is a grueling and heart-rending ordeal, which leaves the Mester bandit-face their Marauders on the return trail. One must be chosen to serve as witness to all Mesterland contracts (though the loser of this affair gets the right to call himself scythe on the surface). Masters of scythe (4 per game) are also available for the hunt, and are ranked on the 70th, 80th and 90th tier respectively. They do not need a formal ranking of their own. All Teams must have a Marauder, unless they have a Master of scythe. Rescue Flag is optional rule for game purposes (but whilst the rules already stated that damage on an opponent's control is equal to another team's control, that's not the case for Marauders, so the Marauder is damned near worthless in a game).New microwave characterization of dielectric/magnetic coatings for plaque-localized tomography.
