: Is the Oracle Devastated? Who is the person we see in the painting portrayed by the iconic Mona Lisa? Written by Jeff Rensin Humans are entertaining most of the psychology there's to entertain. Given the wide diversity of human beings that God has made, things can go terribly wrong. God gives humans free-will, if humans use this gift incorrectly, then they face devastation. To cover this I'll use an iconic artwork by Leonardo DaVinci, The Mona Lisa. Now, what makes God so interested in His creatures is that humans have the potential ability to think on their own. In other words, a human can think without having to be told everything in order to make sense out of everything, thus, a thoughtful human can benefit more from understanding God's perspective than an unthinking brute. To foster humility in a person toward God, He provides an intuition that is helpful in understanding God's perspective. That's a true demonstration of kindness. God has given mankind this gift, which they have chosen to use in the disastrous design called the Fall. This gift is called an intuition. It has many names like conscience, inner voice, thought process, common sense, or a feeling that you know something when you know it. This gift that we have is composed of insights from reason and from Holy Scripture. The Holy Bible is where we get some of the knowledge about God. Reason is only a part of our intuition, as we use this intuition in living out God's will, we must also be guided by the Bible. If you ignored reason, and only heeded Holy Scripture, then you'll create a fool that ends up creating his own bible by drawing conclusions that are not true of God. Take the common statement that humans are selfish by nature, no, it's simply logical as a matter of fact. A human isn't born selfish. A human can choose to be selfish or selfless. A human can choose to be unselfish too. There's a choice and an option to either be selfish or unselfish. Human beings are born as a "state of nature" that has fallen to a state of rebellion. At the time of your birth, you are taking the first steps in taking up a life of rebellion. This causes your soul to be wounded in your inferior position, where it is not worthy of divine worship. It causes your spirit to lose the presence of God and your desire to follow Christ. Because a person,
