Black is cooperating with the prosecutors and will be sentenced in about a month. Conrad Black is now accused of obstruction for trying to keep some of the assets which have been frozen by the court pending the outcome of the prosecution. He is also facing a charge of fraud for hiding royalties from some of his former company Hollinger International Inc. He agreed to pay a fine of $450,000, forfeit $1 million worth of assets and spend two years under house arrest at his estate in Central Otago, New Zealand. His current home is currently being bought by the government. Share this: Like this: Related This entry was posted on October 27, 2006 at 5:55 pm and is filed under Elections, Politics, Politics.
