We have created a new release type this time around on PS Vita, it's called the PlayStation Store Update, or for short (you may know it by other names), PSO (Naaa, not that one, that's not nice). Our PSO is a download only update (although there will be PlayStation Network connectivity), and it contains the full version of the game, plus brand new content. This is the first PSO. If there's anything you don't like, please let us know! It's not just new content this update, we also have a revised story mode and new music! Well, not really, but there are some new sound clips and a new end theme. This update will require an internet connection in order to download, so make sure you're online when you get it! As part of the release of the PlayStation Store Update, we've also made PixelJunk Eden free for PSN users! If you own the game already, you already got the game for free. It's also available as a PS One Classic for the PSP. It will be on the PS Store soon, and you can find out when on our website. If you don't have a PS Vita yet, you can pick one up at a great price, and get in on the games while you can! What's the status on the Nintendo Wii port of PixelJunk Eden? The game's launch was postponed, while we were working hard on porting PixelJunk Eden to PlayStation Vita. Then, at E3 2011, we announced the Wii port was going to be a WiiWare release. Articles Power Bar Power Bars are delicious snacks for athletes who are running or looking to ramp up an existing running program. These healthy snacks are packed with carbs to give you that boost in between workouts and afterwards to keep you energized and avoid a sugar crash. Plus, the power bars also contain protein, iron, and calcium for a complete nutrition package. They're a perfect portable snack for athletes and can be eaten on the go for convenience. Some power bars are thicker than others and are best eaten on the go or while the athlete is on the go. If your athlete has an appetite problem, it may be better to freeze the bars in a ziplock bag and then thaw them when they're ready to eat. People love the treat of having a healthy snack for the gym and work, but many are always on the lookout for "better for you" options on the market. Finding a balance between a taste that is truly good and something truly healthy is what makes Power Bars an obvious choice for your cardio-loving athlete. The Best Power Bars In an online search for power bars, you'll notice there are a lot of different power bar options out there, ranging from additives, nuts, and power bars shaped like things. If you're looking for the ultimate power bars for you and your athlete, here are a couple to try out for a healthy energy boost: Clif Energy Bars Clif is one of the most popular brand names for energy bars and snack bars. When choosing Clif bar options, you want to make sure that you find the Clif Pods flavor. The Clif Pods line of bars is made from fruits and nuts, but with a twist. Instead of using a typical "meat and potatoes" approach, Clif uses an eclectic mix of fruits and nuts to create tasty and healthy snacks for people who want protein and good taste. Melt Away Bar Other power bars by Clif use combinations of real fruits, chocolate, and spices, and they're also delicious. However, the Melt Away Bar is your most enjoyable choice. In this bar, there is a healthy dose of oats plus almonds, protein from hemp seeds, and a touch of honey for a sweet treat. Plus, there is a kick of cinnamon and a little bit

The Jazzy compositions have a calm intro (generally 10 seconds in length), a middle 3 minutes of frenetic energy (generally 2 minutes) and then a calm and intense finale (generally 4 minutes). When playing, I always start with the Ambient and then Jazzy tracks. When the track is over I repeat. It's always a fun and delightful experience to follow.
