The individual semiconductor devices are generally separated from each other by interposing a suitable dielectric layer between each of the semiconductor devices. Some of the interposed dielectric layers are also provided with openings which are filled with a conductive material. These openings are typically referred to as vias, and are employed for electrically connecting one semiconductor device to another semiconductor device. As the art of fabricating and using IC devices advances, there is a continuing trend toward reducing the size of each individual device and toward decreasing the separation between adjacent devices. As the separation between adjacent devices is reduced, the size of the openings used to electrically connect adjacent devices is also reduced. These reductions in size have the advantage of increasing the number of devices that may be fabricated on a particular substrate. As the number of devices that are fabricated on a substrate is increased, the importance of the manufacturability of the fabricating process is correspondingly increased. Several problems are associated with reducing the size of the interconnection vias. As the diameter of the vias decreases, so does the diameter of the openings etched into the dielectric layers which form the vias. It is well known that the etching rate varies at different regions of a wafer. As the diameter of the vias decreases, so does the diameter of

What does the form:password tag do? I am trying to update a user account in my DB, and I am kind of baffled by the way Struts2 works. There is a feature called "Remember Me" that I am trying to implement into my project. I am using Struts2 with Spring MVC framework. I have some login.jsp page where a user can enter his username and password and he gets directed to the "Change Password" page. This change password page is where I am having trouble. In the login.jsp page I have a form with an input textfield named "Username" and two textfields named "Old Password" and "New Password". For now, I have hidden the password value. In my action method I validate the username and password for a user and if everything passes I simply write "true" into the session and the user gets redirected to the "Change Password" page. I have added some debug code to the following action method: public String changePassword(String username, String oldPassword, String newPassword){ final Logger logger = Logger.getLogger(getClass()); logger.info("/changepassword called"); logger.info("username = "+username+" old password = "+oldPassword+" new password =
