It has an API Controller to communicate with the backend data and services. When a user navigates to a specific page they want to be able to call this API with various parameters to load specific data. I have been told the best way to do this is to have a separate API Controller that calls the correct API Controller, and return JSON or XML. I am very new to API Design so if this is a bad approach, please let me know. This is my first time doing an API and I don't know which route to take. A: I created a prototype using the Microsoft.AspNet.WebApi.Owin NuGet package. Downloaded the package (using the Web Get Package Nuget Package command in Package Manager Console) (nuget install Microsoft.AspNet.WebApi.Owin) Deleted all existing files in App_Start folder Created a new WebApiConfig.cs file to get configuration from Add routes 595f342e71
