I'll play the role of the player by taking the name of a name of the character in the game. Unofficial translation done by Kimi Kokusei. English review by Kanaeda Alyssa If you want to know more about the game, please check out the page of the game: -- Art by me: Translation by Kimi Kokusei: -- Kimikimi: Play The Game on Kimikimi! Hey guys! In a recent post I talk about my feelings about Devil and the fact that it's my first game that I have made 100% myself. I wanted to talk about it a bit more, but this ended up being too long. You can always check out my first ever game, Dessert! on This is the second part of the 'The GameHunting Moon/VNArc' story, also by Kimi Kokusei. If you haven't played the first part yet, please check it out. There's now no reason to read this, but I'm leaving it here for posterity and it will probably help those who find my 'Ero In The Netherworld' videos the next time around. "Satan, will you do this for me? " "How dare you ask me to do something like this. I have never, not for one single minute, thought of betraying Satan. How could I? He is my King." "Then, if you

Bionic Heart is a standard beat 'em up action game where you fight your way through vicious gangs, epic boss battles and insane bosses. The story revolves around multiple characters who feel like they have been caught in the middle of a conflict between two powerful factions: The Corporate, who are the masters of the world and are responsible for the automation of almost everything, and the Machines, who are the rebels against the Corporate Empire. In this fight for control of the future, the protagonist, and the one who can really put things in perspective is still waiting for a bionic heart. The storyline of the game takes place in a post-apocalyptic setting, where all control and technology is automated and the only people left on the planet are the human lifers. In the middle of all this chaos, you, as the only real bionic heart, will travel the world and witness the tragic fate of your fellow humans. The game takes place in four settings (open world): The city of Brooklyn, New York The outskirts of New York City The surface of the Moon A mysterious island The main missions are broken down into four areas: The City, where you start your journey The Plastic City, where the fully automated factories, heat, and batteries still function. The Machines City, where the Machines live. The City of the Gods, where the headquarters of the Corporate Empire is. Features: Spend your days as a real bionic heart with high-end prosthetics and a heart that beats (hopefully) more than 300 times per minute. Explore the city, and discover events and cut scenes that happen randomly while in the City and Machines City. Explore the outer regions of the City and Machines City on a motorcycle, at the request of an old friend. Discover the true motives of the Corporate and Machines after getting to know all the characters of the game. Engage in boss battles where you must destroy the machine the fight against. Fight in hard-to-beat levels that will test your limits and abilities. Unlock great weapons and find out the hidden secrets of the game. Ride through the walls of the city. Audio: all music and sound effects are composed and created exclusively for the game. Storyline: The game tells a different story every time you play, depending on your choices at the end of the game. Videos: includes the GMTV and MTV trailers and game trailers. In the not-too-distant future, the central government controls the most powerful technology known to humanity. The only people who can stop it are the rebels. These rebels have freedom on their side, but they are a small force of just a few hundred. They need science on their side. They need you. Warning: While you will build powerful robots, you will die. Many times. Remember to select your weapon and armor before you start your missions. Also, you are not human. Here's what's been added since I originally submitted this: Keyboard Support This is probably the biggest addition, as it means the game is now available to anyone who has ever used a keyboard! Keyboard support is enabled with in-game console commands, such as "Type1" and "Type2". You can also use your keyboard and mouse to control your robot. There are some issues, though: A spacebar is the default "move" key; meaning that is presses SPACE and hold it causes a move. You can bind a key of your choice to Space. Q, W, E, and R are mapped to the WASD keys; if you use a WASD binding with a key, the key will be used as "left" or "right" and then the robot will move. Arrows are used as "look" keys. Pressing UP or DOWN once will cause you to look up or down. Pressing the same key twice will cause you to look a certain direction. If you press RIGHT, LEFT, or "a", it will look around. Del and Tab are used to access the weapon config screen and the console, respectively. If you see "! # " in the console, this means that a bot was destroyed, and the NPC will tell you how many credits. Is This For Me? The game has a reputation for being pretty difficult, but that isn't always the case. This is a side-scrolling, robot-based beat-'em-up, so you'll definitely be frustrated. The game is fairly old, so it's unlikely that you'll find a lot of cool new stuff as you work your way through the game, but I'll be adding more content throughout the game. Each level is randomly generated, so even if you beat the first level, the game will be different the next time you play
