Basic Electronics Sudhakar Samuel Pdf 322

Perhaps this could be done with case statements to transfer the values in the excel file into the pdf itself? I know this would be really hacky. A: It's not clear why you would want to do this. However, here's a simple approach which should give you some idea. It stores each value in a named cell; then prints the results (i.e. one column of figures) to a named column in your.pdf. SetCellContents now takes two cell names: the range to be written and the name of the column to be written to. Sub SetCellContents(rng As String, col As String) Dim xlApp As Object Dim xlWB As Object Dim ws As Object Dim dict As Object Set xlApp = CreateObject("Excel.Application") Set wb = xlApp.Workbooks.Open("C:\...\Desktop\BGSAR 2019.xlsx") Set ws = wb.Worksheets("Excel Workbook-1") Set dict = CreateObject("Scripting.Dictionary") xlApp.Visible = False For Each Cell In Range(rng) If Not dict.exists(Cell.Value) Then dict(Cell.Value) = 1 Else dict(Cell.Value) = dict(Cell.Value) + 1 End If Next ws.Columns(col).NumberFormat = "@" SetCellContents ws.Columns(col), Cell.Offset(, -1), True wb.Save wb.Close xlApp.Quit End Sub Note: This won't save you from the expense of forcing your users to save with an Excel version. You can do what we've done at the end by hiding the Excel window and exiting Excel; but it's probably not a good idea to hide the window. Hopefully, you're able to figure out how to set the PDF to use the columns in the Excel document as the pages. But, there's always the possibility that a user will not select a page other than the first page they select...
