Q: Django filter request GET data I need to filter data of my django model by GET data (GET not POST). Is it possible? A: You don't need to, it's automatically done by Django when you use a simple filter(Q). To use a parameter for your filter, simply add the parameters as a dictionary to your object, and it'll be passed as a querystring, with an optional argument telling it which parameter to use. This is the documentation for query parameters in a GET request. [Altered actin cytoskeleton and increased adhesivity after treatment with PDGF and subsequent treatment with H7, an inhibitor of protein kinase C]. Changes of actin cytoskeleton and adhesivity after treatment of cultured human endothelial cells with PDGF and after treatment of cells pretreated with PDGF and with H7 were examined by laser scanning cytometry (LSC). The actin cytoskeleton in endothelial cells was maintained at the fixed state. PDGF induced transient formation of the filopodia and stress fibers in the cells and enhanced the adhesivity of the cell surface. H7 attenuated the formation of the filopodia and stress fibers induced by PDGF and suppressed the change of adhesivity induced by PDGF. These results indicate that PDGF leads to the activation of PKC by stimulating the phospholipase C and activates the PKC and the Rho-kinase through the protein kinase C dependent signalling pathway to induce the formation of the actin cytoskeleton and enhance the adhesivity of the cell surface. Sec15} ----- All animals were managed in accordance with the Animal Care and Use Committee of our institute (approval number: 15-018). The serous ovarian cancer mouse models were all derived from ID8 cells, which were implanted subcutaneously in the left flank of the mice. Cisplatin was administrated (2.5 mg/kg/day, QD) and the mice were injected with the different treatments at 1 day after the tumor cell inoculation. Drug treatment was continued until the mice were euthanized (100 mg/kg pentobarbital, IP). At 6d1f23a050
